Description of the (Research) Team

The main activity of our research group focuses on the study of different aspects of human cognition, with a special emphasis on linguistic and sociocognitive development. It is also aimed at studying the personality and basic psychological processes involved in adult psychopathology. Finally, we are aimed at analysing the factors involved in cyberbullying in children and adolescents.

Expertise of the Team Leader

Francesc Sidera has lead a research project aimed at studying the prevalence of bullying and cyberbullying in Catalonia, as well as their consequences, and the factors that are involved in their prevention.
