1) PROJECT INFORMATION

Field of expertise related to the topic: Applied Ethics, Philosophy, science, communication & management

Potential contribution to the project: TDr Michèle Barbier, is an Independent Ethics Advisor and Ethics expert for the European Commission.

Ethics goes beyond a set of principles; it is a reasoned reflection for acting well and adopting behaviours that will make the world lastingly habitable for all. It focuses on values and is determined in a relative way in time and space, according to the human community to which it is interested. Ethics does not provide any judgments; it is based on the observation and assessment of the potential short-term and long-term impacts of our actions with the aim to provide solutions/decision. It proposes to question the values and the principles, which must guide our actions, in different situations, in order to act according to them. It is based on a case by case approach. It is strongly related to legislation and governance.

Ethical reflection and guidelines are particularly useful and relevant when the community is facing uncertainties (due to lack of legislation or gaps in regulation/governance). Based on strong collaboration between the different stakeholders involved in a project,

- We can provide consultancy on ethical issues, identification and reflection to find solutions
- we can provide set of principles (scientific/technical/legal guidelines/recommendations, or a charter with core values),
- we can organise workshop to sensibilize and to explore potential solutions to answer ethical issues,
- we can develop the communication tools towards the different targets.

Ethics must be associated to solid communication strategy.
